“ From one broken hearted mother to another..You don't know me, but we share a very sacred bond. I was visiting my sons grave and noticed your sons new grave. Our sons shared several things in common... They were both born in 1988, they both served their country in Afganistan and they both suffered from the effects of that service. My son died in November 2013. He suffered from severe PTSD. I know how you are really doing and my heart aches for you. But, I wanted to share some hope with you as well. Things do get easier in time... Trust in the faith that the Lord loves you and loves your son. He understands just what was going on in his mind. He wants to help you through this trying time. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family. I'll think of him each time I visit Matthews grave. (He's buried just below your son about three or four rows) May you feel the peace the atonement can provide. If you ever need to talk please feel free to contact me. You can find me on Facebook. “ My son served with Jared in Afghanistan and shared many pictures of Jared on his Facebook page. He received many comments back on what a great young man, soldier and friend Jared was to all those he served with. He will be deeply missed by all his brothers in arms. Our family will keep your family in our thoughts & prayers as you journey thru the days ahead. May he rest in peace and may you find comfort knowing that we all share your sorrow.
